

HEALTH & HYGIENE

APPLICATION

Health and Hygiene considerations apply to almost every workplace and cover a broad range of potential hazards. Workplaces should have a range of responses to their Health and Hygiene needs including both preventative and emergency response solutions.

RISK ASSESSMENT

The Safe Work Australia Code of Practice ‘Managing the Work Environment & Facilities’ provides guidelines that address typical issues relating to Health & Hygiene.

First Aid

First Aid kit selection should be based on a risk assessment of the type of work being carried out, the location and the number of workers (trained first aid officers may be necessary). The Safe Work Australia Code of Practice ‘First Aid in the Workplace’ provides practical guidance.

Hydration

Dehydration in the workplace can lead to safety issues as a result of reduced cognitive abilities, performance and reaction times. Strategies covering pre-shift, during and post-shift hydration should be considered. It is critical to ensure workers understand the various hydration strategies they can implement and are given the necessary tools to minimise dehydration.

Hand Cleaners

Hand washing facilities must be provided to enable workers to maintain good standards of personal hygiene and avoid work related skin complaints. Hand cleaners should be selected in response to the specific work environment and hazards.

The correct approach to hand cleaning is one that considers all aspects including pre work protection, using appropriate cleaners, use of antibacterial sanitisers and after work moisturising creams that help restore skin condition.

Sunscreens

Outdoor workers should have access to sunscreens to be used in conjunction with other sun protection strategies. Protection against solar ultraviolet (UV) exposure is critical given that in Australia two out of three people will develop some form of skin cancer during their lifetime. SPF50+ sunscreens with UVA and UVB broad spectrum coverage provide the best protection.

Defibrillators

Providing an automated external defibrillator can reduce the risk of fatality from cardiac arrest. It is a useful addition for workplaces where there is a risk of electrocution or where there are large numbers of members of the public. Automated external defibrillators are designed to be used by trained or untrained persons.

SAFETY TIPS

- Ensure First Aid kit contents are not ‘out of date’ and are restocked as soon as possible.
- When it comes to hydration don’t rely on thirst as it is not a reliable indicator.
- The strongest hand cleaner is not always necessary – select the mildest cleaner possible.
- Sunscreen should be applied at least 15 minutes before sun exposure - and reapplied every two hours.

All workers should be trained in the correct use and maintenance of personal protective equipment.

First Aid Room Equipment

A first aid room should be established at the workplace if a risk assessment indicates that it would be difficult to administer appropriate first aid unless a first aid room is provided. The contents of a first aid room should suit the hazards that are specific to the workplace.

A First Aid Room should:

- Be located within easy access to a sink with hot and cold water (where this is not provided in the room)
- Offer privacy via screening or a door
- Be easily accessible to emergency services (minimum door width of 1 metre for stretcher access)
- Be well lit and ventilated
- Have an appropriate floor area (14 square metres as a guide)
- Have an entrance that is clearly marked with first aid signage
